STATEMENT BY REPRESENTATIVE MCREYNOLDS

Members, as you very well know, we have experienced a national tragedy. Parts of human beings as well as debris from Columbia were scattered across various parts of the state. Many of those found their way into the deep east Texas area. I would like to share with you that when there are occasions like that, there are folks that always rise to the occasion. Our volunteer firemen who cordoned off various parts of the woods in east Texas to begin to identify things. Our county judges, our local peace officers and constables, to sheriffs to policemen, as well as our county judges and other resources of the county, were brought together, first responders.

And then as this began to unfold, it was a joy for me to watch our great Texas agencies come down. DPS have become heroes in my eyes. Jack Colley, with the emergency management team, there at DPS coming down and coordinating our Texas Forest Service who dumped all of their resources immediately into going out into various parts of deep east Texas to look for remains of astronauts and parts of the shuttle. Our adjutant general who came in and wisely realized that we needed to mobilize some of our national guard to come in and stand vigilant and watch to protect citizens from things that would be toxic or dangerous. Our Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, our Texas Aerospace Commission, and as they mobilized very quickly, we set up a response headquarters in Lufkin and we met with our federal counterparts such as FEMA, and EPA, and FBI, and others of the feds who came in. I met some of our astronauts who had family that had been lost in this and had prayers with them as they would find body parts and call local mortuaries and hearse services.

And I'm reminded today that Texas has always been a frontier and there have always been people who have come to the frontier and there has always been danger in a frontier environment. We have read the names and we have prayed over some mighty fine and special Texans and it's a joy to serve with you and to let you know that at least one member of this legislative body is exceedingly pleased with the response of Texans in this matter. I thank you.

STATEMENT BY REPRESENTATIVE J. DAVIS

As all of you are aware, tragedy struck our nation, state, and my Clear Lake community on Saturday, February 1, 2003 with the breakup of space shuttle Columbia over the skies of Texas.

Most of us have been lulled into believing that after 17 years of accident-free launches, our endeavors into the heavens have become routine.

We were reminded this Saturday morning that isn't so. Our space shuttle program is a high risk yet high reward journey.

The magnificent seven that made up Columbia's STS-107 crew are as follows: Colonel Rick Husband, Amarillo, Texas; Lt. Colonel Michael Anderson, Cheney, Washington; Commander Laurel Clark, Ames, Iowa; Captain David Brown, Arlington, Virginia; Commander William McCool, Lubbock, Texas; Dr. Kalpona Chawla, Karnal, India; Colonel Ilan Ramon, Tel Aviv, Israel.

As President Bush quoted from the Book of Isaiah, I, too, would like to read those same words of Isaiah the prophet from the floor of the Texas House. "Lift your eyes and look to the heavens. Who created all these? He who brings out the starry hosts one by one and calls them each by name. Because of His great power and mighty strength not one of them is missing."

On a personal note, my son Reagan and Colonel Ramon's son Asaf Ramon are friends and are freshmen at Clear Lake High School. They have been to each other's homes over the past three years while Colonel Ramon was training in America. Asaf was at Reagan's basketball game a week ago Friday, and my wife, Jayne, noticed Asaf was wearing his space shuttle pin over his heart. He beamed with pride as he talked about his dad being the first Israeli to fly in space.

The Clear Lake community and the NASA family have been struck at their very heart and soul. Please keep us in your prayers as we work through this tragedy. Let me close with Psalm 147, verses two and three, "The Lord builds up Jerusalem; He gathers the exiles of Israel. He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds. He determines the number of the stars and calls them each by name."

Please join me in a moment of silence as we remember the Columbia and her crew.

STATEMENT BY REPRESENTATIVE EISSLER

Nearly 17 years ago to the day, the Challenger disaster made us pause as a country to ponder why we risk our safety in flight in the pursuit of knowledge to better mankind. As a former naval aviator, I viewed flying for my country as a reward for my freedom, and not as a risk to my life. I know the crew of the Columbia felt the same way. May God bless them, their families, and their brethren. May this resolution add comfort to them and may we find the cause so that we may vouchsafe future missions. Thank you.
